100th Day Coloring: Start Here

What's inside

- Big 100 to color with three number kids, outline words to color, and two color-the-class pages (pages 3-6)
- Count to 100: ten frames of ten dots, count by tens, and a hundred chart where the tens get colored (pages 7-9)
- Trace 100 three times (page 10)
- Write: "In 100 days I can …," "I learned …," "When I am 100 …," and a lined 100th day page (pages 11-14)
- I made it to 100! a keepsake to color (page 15)
- What's next (page 16) and credits (page 17)

A plan for the 100th day, about 40 minutes

- Start with color: hand out page 3 or one of the class pages while you take attendance and count the day together. Crayons, markers or colored pencils all work.
- Count to 100 together: on page 7 each child colors ten dots in every box and says 10, 20, 30 up to 100 as they go. Page 8 writes the same count by tens, and page 9 shows where every tenth number sits.
- Write: choose one writing page for each child. Page 11 gives the first words of four sentences; pages 12-14 leave room to draw and write.
- Send one home: the keepsake on page 15 has a line for the date and a line for a favorite part of the day.

Prep and ink

No cutting. Every student picture is a black-and-white outline made to be colored, so the pages print light. Print single-sided on plain paper, one copy per child. Choose what fits your group; pages that are too much for today can wait.

Day 100 is yours to set

Schools reach their 100th day on different dates, so no date is printed. The pages work whenever your class gets there.
